Community activist wants derelict buildings fixed or torn down

By Brenda Bunting

City resident Catherine McRath asked Belle Glade City Commissioners Monday night to do something about the condemned buildings in the Southwest section of Belle Glade.

Mrs. McRath, who says she is a community activist who cares about her town, wants condemned buildings torn down and substandard buildings either demolished or fixed.

"There's a circle there," she said, naming of Avenues B, C, D and others. "It's awful. A 16-year-old girl had a baby in an abandoned building."

She says a man she has known for years, who was only 40 years old, was also found dead in one of the abandoned buildings.

"It's time for the community to do something," she told commissioners.

Mrs. McRath praised Police Chief Michael Miller and his officers for helping her with other problems and said she appreciated his help.

Mayor Steve Weeks told Mrs. McRath he agreed with her that there are buildings in the southwest section that need attention, but added, "It takes time to get them torn down."

In other business Sept. 23, the commission voted to change the city's insurance policies for property, general liability, auto, public officials, law enforcement and workers compensation.

Director of Finance, David Wood, said the city could save $68,793 in premiums and improve their coverage and reduce their deductibles. Commissioners unanimously voted to change to Public Risk Management of Florida. The policy is administered by Milton Carpenter Insurance of Belle Glade.

In other business:

• Director of Public Services, Gene Simmons, told commissioners they are still waiting for permitting for installing the traffic light in front of Big Lake Plaza.

• Approved a bid by J.E. Wilson & Son, Inc. to provide gasoline and diesel fuel for city

Penny-a-pound tax on sugar question will go to the voters on Nov. 5

By Brenda Bunting
Editor

The Florida Supreme Court ruled unanimously Tuesday that voters can decide at the polls Nov. 5 whether sugar farmers exclusively will pay a penny-a-pound tax on sugar grown in the EAA to clean up pollution in the Everglades.

If passed, the tax would raise about $25 to $30 million a year for 25 years and pay for Everglades restoration. Sugar farmers say the fee would take away their profit margin and force many to go out of business. Sugar farmers in the EAA have already agreed to pay about $30 million over several years to help with Everglades restoration.

Three amendments to the Florida Constitution were looked at by the court to determine if they should be allowed on the ballot. All three were approved. The other two proposals include Amendment 5, which will ask voters if they want to create a trust fund, a state account, to hold money raised for Everglades restoration. Amendment 6 will ask voters to decide if those who pollute should

Life Builders, a Men's Ministry Group, wants recognition for what they do and what they stand for, rather than who the individuals are Lifebuilders members awoke to a beautiful day Saturday, Sept. 14, to refurbish an elderly Paohkee woman's home. The 85-year-old, bedridden lady has no living relatives and her home was in ruins until Lifebuilder members re-shingled her roof, painted inside and out, and worked on giving her a new floor.

The Lifebuilders organization had its inception one month ago, already having approximately 45 members join.

The main goal of the Lifebuilders organization is for men to become better Christians number one, and then also become better migrant cycle by attending college. She attended the University of Madrid and is a graduate of Bethune Cookman College. She earned her Master's degree from the University of Pittsburgh and is an international professor of English to speakers of other languages.

Currently employed by the Palm Beach County School Board, she also coordinates the ESL program at West Technical Educational Center.

"I still plan to stay active in the community," says Mrs. Miller, who notes that she is on the board of Palm Beach County Boys & Girls Club. (Cont. on page 9)

Our planet is getting warmer

By Mike Lyons

There is little doubt that our planet is getting warmer. Climatologists report that since the ice Age the temperature of the Earth has risen between 5 and 9 degrees.

Yet, some climatologists believe the temperature will increase dramatically over the next century because of the "greenhouse effect." These scientists argue that carbon dioxide trapped in the atmosphere will continue to swell the Earth's temperature by as much as 3.5 degrees.

That doesn't sound like much of a change, but the scientists predict this "global warming" will trigger a series of severe climatic changes that will produce widespread problems around the world. The glaciers might melt, the weather in New York might be more like ours and the hurricane season might last nine months instead of six.

To avoid these catastrophic oceanographer John Martin.

Martin figured that adding iron to the ocean would stimulate the growth of microscopic marine plants. These iron-enriched plants, according to Martin's theory, would soak up enough carbon dioxide to slow down global warming.

The other ideas are a lot more radical. One scientist wants to launch a trillion Mylar balloons into the upper atmosphere. The balloons would reflect sunlight away from the Earth and reduce global warming.

Another scientist says soot, not balloons, should be sent up, up and away. The soot would absorb solar radiation that would heat the upper atmosphere and cool the lower atmosphere.

Then, there is the iceberg theory. The idea is to haul an iceberg from the North Pole to the tropics. Before the ice melted, it would reflect the sunlight, cooling the earth. The only problem is the iceberg would have to be as large as Texas.

Speaking of large, another idea is to place a 1,200-mile-long solar shield 930,000 miles from Earth. This paper-thin shield would reflect solar energy. By the way, the estimated cost of the shield is $10 trillion dollars.

No one is suggesting that we employ any of these ideas now. After all, global warming is still a much-debated, controversial theory. There is no proof, no "smoking gun," to link the theory to fact.

Mike Lyons is the weatherman for WPBF, Channel 25.

problems, we've been told that we need to dramatically increase our fuel efficiency and switch to alternative sources of energy. If not, our great-grandchildren will pay for our mistakes.

Some scientists, however, have another thought. It's called geo-engineering. The idea is to purposely manipulate the environment to avoid global warming. In other words, these folks want to fool with Mother Nature.

It is certainly not a new idea. In the 1960's, researchers at the National Hurricane Center tried to weaken hurricanes. Since the 1940's, people have been putting chemicals into clouds hoping rain or snow will fall out.

Yet, while the concept isn't new, it is certainly controversial. There are all sorts of legal and ethical questions involved in messing around with something we don't fully understand. We could, for example, make things worse, not better.

Still, scientists have come up with a whole bunch of ideas to reduce the effect of global warming. The most well known is the so-called "Geo-Island Solution" suggested by

Skin cancer has become a major health problem

By Paula Swaford, RN

Any job, whether it be a secretary or a heavy-equipment operator, carries a certain amount of risks to a person's general health. Job-related illness is a major health problem in America today. More systems than ever before are in place to protect people from the job hazards. We have special protective equipment such as hats, gloves, and masks to help shield us from danger.

Many companies have special safety programs in place and rules and regulations to comply with, that encourages a healthier environment to work in.

Trained professionals such as safety specialists, industrial hygienists, company physicians and nurses are alert for potential problems. All these systems will be useless, however, unless you do your part to help protect your health on the job.

We have all heard recently about the "sick" buildings that employees are required to work in. The hazards may or may not be obvious to the naked eye and may have immediate effects or delayed effects occurring years after the original contact with the offending substance. So be aware of any offending substances in your work area.

Self-protection must start with you, the employee. Always think before you act. Treat hazardous substances and working conditions with respect. Never cut corners to get the job done faster. Make sure you follow all company safety and health policies regarding protective gear, smoking, exposure limits, clean-up procedures, etc.

All it takes for tragedy to strike is one moment of carelessness. Be curious and become knowledgeable about all the substances you work with or that are present in your work environment. Learn how these substances can enter the body (for example, through inhaling, swallowing, skin contact) and know the safe exposure levels. Watch and be on the alert for any kind of dangerous conditions that may affect your health. These include noise, heat, radiation, vibration, as well as leaks, spills, malfunctions in protective gear, poor safety practices on the part of fellow workers, etc. Report any unsafe or suspicious conditions to your supervisor.

The possible effects of air contaminants, chemicals, excessive noise, light, vibration, heat or cold; and exposure to bacteria or radiation are all potentially damaging to the body. Injuries may occur to the lungs and respiratory system that may result in cancer, black-lung disease, white-lung disease (from asbestos exposure), bronchitis, emphysema, etc.

Irritation or diseases of the skin can occur after contact with certain chemicals, glues, solvents, etc. and can cause burns, rashes and/or dermatitis. Some chemicals have been linked to birth defects and impotence within the reproductive system, as well as damage or disease of the blood, the lungs, the central nervous system, eyesight and hearing.

Know the hazards where you work. Use the appropriate protective equipment, and make sure that it fits you properly. Keep yourself, your clothing, and your equipment clean. Follow the safety rules and get regular checkups.

Until next time...stay informed and stay healthy.

Traumatic Hair Loss Victims Struggle to Cope With Emotions

(NU) - When a disease causes an adult's or child's hair to fall out in patches, those who are afflicted and the people who love them often experience it as an emotional trauma.

The ailment is called alopecia areata (al-o-pe-uh-uh-ray-uh-tuh), a non-contagious condition that provokes feelings of humiliation that can result in acute psychological pain — unless treated with sensitivity and good sense.

The National Alopecia Areata Foundation, a nonprofit organization that promotes research and information about the disease, often deals with questions about how to cope with the emotional side of alopecia areata. Here are a few:

What are the common psychological reactions to alopecia areata?

Sadness, depression, "shame, hopelessness, anger, embarrassment, withdrawal, and self-doubt based on real or perceived humiliation and ridicule. Patients of children with the disease often feel guilty because the disease may be genetic.

Who develops it?

Alopecia areata often occurs in families whose members have had asthma, hay fever, atopic eczema or other autoimmune conditions such as thyroid disease, vitiligo, early-onset diabetes, rheumatoid arthritis, psoriasis, erythema nodosum, pernicious anemia or Addison's disease.

How does it affect daily life?

It's challenging for those with extensive hair loss, yet thousands of successful, well-adjusted people live with alopecia and have happy, productive lives.

Does the hair ever grow back?

Yes, it can, it does, and in some cases it falls out again. The hair follicles are not dead, just dormant.

Should children with alopecia wear wigs?

Billy Lynch, who has the condition called alopecia areata, proudly displays the Cabbage Patch doll that was created especially for him.

This is a problem that parents often face. A parent who is not doing well with the child's hair loss may signal that the child is ready for a wig. As a parent, it is better to start early expressing often that you love the child just the way he or she is. Try to keep the wig conversation with the child by listing reasons for and against a wig, including whether which side is best.

When is counseling necessary?

Get counseling if alopecia areata has caused a dramatic change in your lifestyle, if you no longer participate in activities that were once joyful, if you miss work or school frequently because of the condition.

Who can give you help?

The NAAF sponsors alopecia areata research and distributes useful information. Write NAAF, P.O. Box 150760, San Rafael, CA 94915, or call (415) 456-4644.

OPINION PAGE

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I am seeking information on Mr. Sidney W. Colvin. Mr. Colvin lived with his family in or near Pahokee in the 1960's.

We are having a graduation class reunion and would like to get in touch with him.

If anyone has any information, please contact Bernard Smyly, 402 California Avenue, LeLand, Ms. 38756 or phone (601) 686-7717.

Thank you very much,
Walter B. Smyly

I was moved to action today when I read the Speak Out opinion titled "Spanish being taught at Gove."

I applaud the efforts of the staff at Gove, furthermore, I based in part my decision to move to Belle Glade within the Gove district upon the fact that my daughter would be given the opportunity to become bilingual and possibly trilingual by the end of fifth grade.

I am an American. My parents and I were born here, however my grandparents came from a foreign land, as did most of our ancestors. I never learned the language of my ancestors and when entering high school and college, found learning a foreign language very difficult. It was unnatural. Since that time, the world has become smaller, or so it seems. We can watch events as they happen across the world. We can communicate with and travel to places our parents and grandparents never imagined. Our educational and business opportunities have expanded to include every nation in the world.

By the time my daughter is out of college will the world appear even smaller? Can I give her an advantage for the future? A good education, communication skills, and understanding of other cultures and her ability to convey her thoughts and ideas in a non-threatening manner without arrogance and prestige will most assuredly ensure her future. My opinion, if a greater attempt is made by each of us to relate to foreign cultures, the world would definitely be a small place, if not a better place to live. Good job, Gove.

Sincerely,
Mary Lou Powers
Belle Glade

Did not appreciate remarks

"I am an Afro-American resident in Belle Glade. Confrontation of my blackness is confronted infrequently in the city because of efforts made to stay away from businesses, people and places practicing alienation in the community.

However, I cannot remember when I have felt betrayed by a person whom I respected. The Palm Beach Post article on Monday, Sept. 9, 1996, was revealing to all citizens in Palm Beach County, the nation and the world. The article stated that blacks are satisfied with the white-dominated political structure, "no one has complained," no one has brought it to my attention. "If it ain't broke, why fix it?"

The implied message was that the blacks are ignorant and do not think for themselves therefore they are happy to accept anything the white establishment had to offer. Is this the thinking of others chosen to represent the civic and social programs in our city or have we elected a few ignorant and insensitive officials?

* The article also pointed to the dual system used by our commissioners in providing services for recreation and other facets of the community.

Mayor Steve Weeks has verbally abused his position as a city commissioner. It is apparent that he and possibly other city commissioners used to enroll in cultural sensitivity classes. I am concerned about the leadership in Belle Glade. Is leadership training the answer to Belle Glade's problems and vision?

It is true that Afro-Americans vote and support members of the white race. This decision made by many residents was not based on skin color, but the feeling that these persons are capable of providing equal services to all the people, all the time."

Editor's note: Mayor Steve Weeks says this editor is welcome to visit him, one-on-one to discuss his or her concerns. He can be reached by calling city hall at 996-0100 to schedule an appointment.

Spanish taught at Gove a great benefit for all the children

"I'm calling in response to the Speak Out about Spanish being taught at Gove Elementary. I am the parent of the student who is in the dual-language program at Gove Elementary. I feel that my child has a wonderful advantage learning a second language at such an early age. Not only is my child experiencing the best of both worlds by having two wonderful teachers, he is learning bilingual education that is being taught in other countries that are known

First statewide effort to prepare Florida's Baby Boomers for the challenges of growing old Tallahassee - A new, non-governmental statewide effort is underway to help people across Florida face the many challenges that come with growing older, according to Jim Towe, director of the Florida Commission on Aging with Dignity. The Commission has launched "Project 2010 A.D.", a public education effort that includes a series of forums to be held in cities across Florida to help Baby Boomers and the elderly discuss the inevitable challenges that come as millions of our population grow older. The first forum was held in Tallahassee on Sept. 12.

"Many Baby Boomers are currently facing the challenges of caring for their parents while raising their children. In the process, preparing for their own retirement often gets moved to the bottom of the list," Towe said.

The project, which is not funded by tax dollars, will help Florida get ready for the dramatic changes that will begin to take place in the year 2010 when 76 million Baby Boomers nationwide begin to retire.

"Floridians have the right to age with dignity and this right should be an unspoken covenant among generations. Project 2010 A.D. will promote this covenant now so that in fifteen years, when our state's population of citizens over age 65 doubles, we'll be ready," said Towe.

A bipartisan advisory board, including prominent religious leaders, business persons, government officials (including Gov. Lawton Chiles), and Baby Boomers will lead the forums on critical aging issues, including:

- ✓ protecting Medicaid from fraud and providing sufficient program funding for the indigent elderly;

- ✓ death and dying issues - pain management, assisted suicide, and living wills that allow individuals to control their own critical care decision-making;

- ✓ removing barriers that hinder families from caring for their own elderly;

- ✓ planning for retirement, including the potential of costly health care; and,

- ✓ promoting health and long term care systems in Florida which maintain the dignity of citizens of every generation.

"Intensive research is not needed to find out that Florida will be hard-hit when the Baby Boom generation begins to retire. Florida's aging population is the largest in America and we have the opportunity to lead the way in offering practical solutions to help all generations cope with the challenges of aging with dignity," added Towe.

According to a 1995 U.S. Census Bureau Report, nine percent of Florida's 14 million residents are senior citizens, the highest percentage in the nation. Florida and the federal government currently spend $1.4 billion for elderly Medicaid patients in nursing homes and other long term care facilities. This is the single largest expenditure in the Medicaid program.

"Project 2010 A.D. forums are planned for Tampa, Orlando, and Miami. Similar forums are planned for Ft. Lauderdale, West Palm Beach, Pensacola, Sarasota, St. Petersburg and elsewhere. Each forum will include a four-hour public meeting and a one-hour field visit. The first forum was in Tallahassee and the last session of Project 2010 A.D. is scheduled to conclude here."

The first forum on Sept. 12 provided an overview of the issues that will be covered in future forums. Former Lehman Brothers CEO and United States Secretary of Commerce, and current President of both the Blackstone Group and the Concord Coalition, Peter Peterson spoke on the fiscal issues facing Florida and the nation in preparing for the retirement of the Baby Boom generation.

In addition to Peter Peterson, the following individuals also presented at the Tallahassee forum:

- University of South Florida professor Susan MacManus, author of Young V. Old, outlined her research findings on the potential for generational combat in the 21st century.

- Former State Senator Curt Kiser, chairman of the Florida Long Term Care Commission, reviewed the findings of that Commission's report which was issued in December, 1995.

- Ray Owens, a member of the Baby Boom generation from Jacksonville, spoke about his family's experience in caring for their mother who recently passed away, and the role home health care played for the entire family during her illness.

- Baby Boomer Vicki Goodman of Tallahassee shared her thoughts, concerns and hopes as a single mom with three teenagers who is working full-time and whose mother is now living with her.

- Tallahassee high school student Sarah Skilling told participants about her volunteer work at a local nursing home, highlighting the importance of the generational covenant young and old make to one another.

Project 2010 A.D. is a privately funded public education campaign which provides leaders and citizens of Florida with the opportunity to lead the nation in preparing for the numerous challenges of an aging population. This eighteen month project was made possible by grants from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, The Claude and Mildred Pepper Foundation and The Harry and Jeanette Weinberg Foundation.

CHAMBER MEMBER OF THE MONTH—Lyons Printing was presented the plaque as "Chamber Member of the Month" by the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce at their monthly breakfast meeting. The meeting was held Wednesday, Sept. 18. Chamber Executive Director Leigh Woodham presents the award to Dave Lyons, owner of Lyons Printing in Clewiston.

for their advancement in education.

For any parent who would not want to expose their child to bilingual education, there are plenty of other schools available. As for the education of my child, I am very pleased and amazed by the wonderful things he is learning in English and in Spanish."

A Hispanic point of view

"Hey, what's up? I'm a 17-year-old Chicano, native to Belle Glade, and I'm addressing this to someone with the bigoted opinion that was published in the September 19th issue of The Sun, regarding Spanish being taught in our elementary schools.

For one, I would like to tell this person, whoever they are, that if they are aware we are in the United States. Second of all, I would like to say that a majority of the students and people in Belle Glade that they refer to as "immigrant students," and "Spanish students" that they are just as much American as them and their kids, so what makes them better?

What is the big deal about their kids and others learning a second language? I bet they didn't know that the majority of Hispanic students entering elementary that their native language is English. So what's the difference if someone of Hispanic background is coming to this school district not knowing how to speak a word of English having to learn English?

Those who learn Spanish will have a benefit also. One day our kids will be better off if they can communicate in two languages to they can get ahead in life."

Parents welcome Spanish

"In response to Spanish being taught at Gove, as a parent of a child in the International Studies Program at Gove Elementary School, which is grades one and two only, we are very excited about the opportunity for our children to become bilingual."

How many of us know someone who has studied a foreign language two or three years in high school, yet they cannot fluently speak it?

The students receive language arts, math and reading instruction in both languages, and alternate science and social studies. They go beyond the three R's. This program was not designed for native speakers of Spanish, however, it will benefit all children.

We have an enthusiastic student and wholeheartedly support this International Studies Program."

Obituary

Bertha Mae Connell Ennis 1894-1996

The oldest member of Canal Point United Methodist church passed away Sept. 3, 1996 at the age of 101.

Bertha Mae Connell Ennis was born Sept. 14, 1894 in Waukunah, Florida. She was one of fourteen children and moved to Canal Point in 1937. While living in Canal Point, she operated a grocery store for approximately 20 years.

Mrs. Ennis was blessed with six children, 13 grandchildren, 20 great-grandchildren, and two great-great-grandchildren. For the last 2 1/2 years, Ms. Ennis resided at Renova Health Care Center in Lake Park. While being attended by a loving family and professional staff, she gave much love, if not more, than she received.

Many of the residents and staff at Renova came to her regularly for prayer and comfort. Mrs. Ennis was also known for her wonderful singing of her beloved hymns, her favorite being "Count Your Blessings". She was such a valued and loved resident at Renova that a memorial service was given in her honor.

Mrs. Ennis gave so much to family and friends and will be greatly missed by all. If she were here today, she would tell you of her many blessings in her long, full life and also remind us to count our blessings, name them one by one.

fundraising project by bringing their aluminum cans to any Reynolds Recycling Center in Palm Beach County and asking that the money be donated to the Boys & Girls Clubs.

"The Boys & Girls Clubs would like to thank Reynolds Recycling for helping us get a recycling program off the ground," said Robinson.

"Thanks to the great support which the project received from our members' families and friends, we were able to raise much-needed funds while also doing something positive for the environment."

The money will certainly go a long way toward enabling us to provide our youngsters with more programs and special events."

In addition to assisting with the coordination of the aluminum can recycling drive, Reynolds made a second donation to the Boys & Girls Clubs.

The company pledged one penny per pound for the total amount of recyclable material collected at its three Palm Beach County recycling centers during the drive.

This contribution applied to all recyclable material collected, regardless of whether customers chose to donate it to the Boys & Girls Clubs.

The combination of funds raised through the recycling drive and Reynolds' additional contribution to the Boys & Girls Clubs brought the project's grand total to $1,700.

"Reynolds Recycling was happy to help the Boys & Girls Clubs organize and launch an aluminum can recycling drive," said Isenberg. "Supporting community organizations through fundraising events like this one is a large part of what Reynolds Recycling is all about. We look forward to teaming with the Boys & Girls Clubs for more activities in the future."

Besides being a great way for non-profit organizations like the Boys & Girls Clubs to raise money, recycling with Reynolds also promotes environmental awareness.

Recycling aluminum saves landfill space and helps conserve energy and natural resources. For example, recycling just 16 aluminum cans saves the energy equivalent to burning one gallon of gasoline, and one pound of recycled aluminum saves the equivalent of 7.5 kilowatts of electricity.

Reynolds Recycling operates three recycling center in Palm Beach County: in Palm Beach Lakes, at the northwest corner of Military Trail and Southern Boulevard; in Lake Worth, at the southeast corner of Military Trail and Lake Worth Road; and in Belle Glade, at the corner of 9th Street and West Canal Street North.

For more information about Reynolds Recycling Center locations, hours, prices and services, or to find out how you can profit from a recycling drive, contact Reynolds Recycling at 1-800-628-0066.

ay to clean up the pollution.

Robert P. Baker, Jr., Senior Vice President of U.S. Sugar Corporation, says Amendment 4 represents taxation without representation. "It gives one group the opportunity to impose a punitive tax upon another," he said.

Behind the ballot initiative is a group called Save Our Everglades. The group, led by the widow of an Orlando developer, George Barley, and Paul Tudor, a New York millionaire, have spent millions of dollars to get the necessary signatures to get the amendments on the November ballot. Sugar growers in the Glades have also spent millions fighting the amendments through television advertisements telling voters they are concerned that if the tax is imposed, there is no plan as to how it will be spent. They say they are also concerned that the monies will be misused and other monies already being paid for Everglades restoration will be funneled away from the original purpose.

"A tax mandated in the Florida Constitution is unprecedented in the history of this state," says Mr. Baker. "It circumvents the legislative process, removing from elected representatives the responsibility to set taxes. It opens the door for taxes to be collected and spent by a non-elected body with no oversight by the voters and responsible to no one but themselves."

If passed, "these amendments will serve to undermine legitimate Everglades restoration activities that are already in place and

The mayor also presented a proclamation to Mrs. Miller which read:

Whereas, Harma M. Miller was born of a migrant family in 1944 and obtained her basic education in the Glades area school system; and

Whereas, she benefited her community in the capacity of City Commissioner from 1986 to 1996, and during her 1990 term she served as our first female Mayor; and

Whereas, she is well known throughout the State of Florida as a master trainer, adjunct professor, teacher of English as a second language, and she fluently speaks three different languages; and money raised is put into a general fund to be used as needed.

The group puts their $25 per person membership fee into the fund, so as new members are added the funds to be used for projects grows as well. Donations of materials by organizations and businesses within the community, and also anonymous donations given to the group are also used to begin and complete projects.

The Lifebuilders Organization's Al Floy Chart is broken down as follows: Pastor, President, Vice President, Secretary-Treasurer, and then the Life Force Teams.

The Life Force Teams are different outreach programs within the group that are broken down into seven separate groups:

Search & Rescue, where the group puts forth effort to Search & Rescue men and families who have quit the faith. Evangelism, in which the group will host street services, door to door visitation, and tent revivals throughout the city. Fundraisers, where the group hosts dinners, softball tournaments, and marketing strategies quarterly (four times a year) to raise funds that will be used for projects, etc. Men of Action, is when the group combines to repair and give maintenance to people such as single women, the old, the poor, and people without the capabilities to fix their homes or even their cars. Social Events are held by members within the group to help members and their families bond. Physical Fitness is designed to provide exercise in a way that will help the group bond and keep their physical temple fit, such as weight lifting, softball/golf, walking, volleyball, and racquetball. Spiritual Growth is when men in the group are invited to spend time one on one disciplining new Christians.

"If you feel you have a place within this organization, you can contact one of the members. We encourage new membership from all different ethnic groups to join us and help in the ministry," said Mr. Allen.

The Lifebuilders organization holds only four meetings a year. If you need information feel free to call, stop by, or write: Right to Lifebuilders, 1800 Bacon Point Road, Pahokee, or call (561) 996-0508.

Gators chew up Patriots

By Eddie Campbell
The Glades Day Gators (No. 1 in the 2A State poll) hosted the American Heritage Patriots last Friday in the Gators' first district game of the year.

Last year these two teams literally beat up each other in a hard fought game in which the Gators pulled out the victory 13-10.

This year's game was similar in many ways except one, the final score. The Gators used a balanced running game and took advantage of four Patriot turnovers to win this game 28-13.

The Gators got on the scoreboard first when Lee Sweet ran 32 yards for the first of his three touchdown runs. A missed extra point attempt left the score at 6-0. The Patriots answered the challenge at the beginning of the second quarter with a touchdown of their own. The successful extra point attempt put the Patriots up 7-6.

Senior Heath Norman then recovered a Patriot fumble and returned it to the Patriot 23 yard line. This set up Norman's 13 yard touchdown reception from quarterback Zach Threlkeld. The Gators converted their two point try to put them up 14-7 going into halftime.

Sweet visited the endzone again this time from six yards out to put the Gators up 22-6. This would be the only score in the third quarter from either team.

A key defensive hold by the Gators early in the fourth quarter led to Sweet's third touchdown of the night which put the Gators out to reach 28-7. The Patriots would score on the final play of the game but it proved inconsequential. The Gators had won their first district game of the year by the score of 28-13.

Sophomore Ronald Rimes shined in his first career varsity game on defense with 10 tackles, one sack, and one fumble recovery. Sweet ended the night with 83 yards on 16 carries, and his backfield partner Stacey Cox rushed for 82 yards on 18 carries.

This Friday (Sept. 27), the Gators host district rival Benjamin. This one you don't want to miss.

Junior Varsity Gators fall 2-1, lose to Tigers

By Jeff Hawkins

The J.V. Gators hosted the Clewiston Tigers last Thursday night. It was a very uncharacteristic night for the Gator defense.

The defense had a hard time containing the Tigers running game. They gave up 218 yards rushing and three touchdowns. Josh Crawford led the way on defense with six tackles, followed by Donnie Scruggs who had five tackles. Eddie Motes had the only sack of the game and finished with four total tackles.

The offense was hurtling with the departure of Ronald Rimes at quarterback. He was moved up to varsity to help fill the spot for an injured player. Jimmy Dobson led all rushers with a season high of 259 yards on 36 carries and the only touchdown for the Gators. The offense ended up with 304 total yards.

The Gators host the Benjamin Buccaneers tonight at home, 7 p.m. Gator fans be sure to come and support your J.V. Gator football team.

J.V. Blue Devils roll to victory over Wellington

The Pahokee High School Junior Varsity Blue Devils, led by Freshman quarterback Octavious Bouie, trounced the Wellington Wolverines last Thursday night at Lair Field. Bouie completed two touchdown passes for 66 yards to eighth grade wide receiver Alvaughn Johnson Jr. Jawarski Bouie, eighth grade running back, rushed for 155 yards including two touchdowns and one two point conversion. Emmanuel Hendrix, sophomore running back, rushed for 68 yards with one touchdown and an interception. The Blue Devils led 32-0 at halftime. (Cont. on page 7)

Raiders face upset by Lions, fall 14-13

Glades Central (1-2, No. 6 in the Class 4A State poll) was disappointed when... with 2:59 remaining on the clock at the Raider's field, the Lions blocked an extra point attempt that could have tied the score. The final score of the game ended with the Raiders 13 and Olympic Height Lions 14.

RAIDER'S SENIOR OL/BL #50 OTIS DUHART AND SENIOR TE #80 ANDRE HARRIOTT take time out to catch their breath during Friday night's game against Olympic Height.

Two tied for the lead

Well, our Pigskin Predictions have gotten off to a fast start with two players already tied for first place. Hattie Bennett with Barnett Bank and John Zimmerman, Renter's Choice, have both made some good picks for the games last week.

All our players picked Glades Day School this past week. Good choice! But the Glades Central game was a heartbreaker with our Raiders losing by just one point.

Hattie Bennett was happy to hear she was tied for the lead this week and hopes to keep up the pace. "It's a Barnett team effort," she says. She kidding says, "We argue and then I have the last say!" Mrs. Bennett says her husband watches a lot of football, but she has been watching too to keep up with the scores.

John Zimmerman with Renter's Choice says it's a guessing game for him. "I'm just going down through here circling what sounds best," he says. He seemed surprised that he did so well this week, but says he hopes he can continue to stay ahead.

Good luck to all our players.

New Hunter Education Law effective Jan. 1

Effective Jan. 1, 1997, young Florida hunters won't have to take the state sponsored Hunter Education course until they need a hunting license at age 16.

Those born on or after June 1, 1975 must still take the course regardless of their age to qualify for a license, said Lt. Lynne Maddox, Everglades regional hunter education officer, Florida Game & Fresh Water Fish Commission (GFC).

"Many parents will probably still want their young hunters to attend a safety class," Maddox said. "This year we will be offering special classes structured for different age groups rather than just one class for all."

Approximately 10,000 Florida hunters enroll in the hunter education classes each year, according to Maddox. She said the courses are taught by volunteer instructors trained by the GFC.

Topics covered include:

wildlife management, wildlife

identification and wilderness survival, along with other outdoor skills. Outdoor ethics and gun safety are also stressed.

The course includes a minimum of 12 hours of classroom instruction and several hours on the shooting range where participants shoot rifles, shotguns, bows and muzzleloaders.

Individuals interested in learning more about the GFC Hunter Safety Course may call the GFC Regional Headquarters in West Palm Beach at (561) 640-6100.

Hungryland Boardwalk and Interpretive Trail, a natural for wildlife watchers Wildlife watchers are a growing segment of our population. These are people who love to get out and see wildlife in its natural setting.

One of the best places to watch wildlife in Palm Beach County is the Hungryland Boardwalk and Interpretive Trail in the J.W. Corbett Wildlife Management Area, said Lt. Jim Huffstodt, information coordinator with the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission (GFC).

The 1.2-mile circle of trail and elevated boardwalk provides visitors with a "window on the wilderness," according to Huffstodt. The facility was opened April 25, 1992 and has been used by thousands of wildlife lovers, hikers, nature photographers, birders, and scout groups.

Huffstodt said the trail provides easy access through four major habitat components which comprise the Hungryland Slough. These habitats include a freshwater marsh, cypress swamp, oak hammock, and pine flatwoods.

People using the trail have a good chance of seeing a wide variety of birds and wildlife including: wading birds, red-shouldered hawks, bobcats, white-tailed deer, squirrels, and various songbirds.

A series of interpretive signs are placed along the trail. The trail is open from sunrise to sunset. The best times to see wildlife are at dawn or at dusk.

Visitors can reach the J.W. Corbett Wildlife Management Area by going north on State Route 710 (the Beeline), and then going left onto North Lake Blvd. They should follow North Lake until it intersects with the Seminole-Pratt Road, and then go right for three miles. The entrance to Corbett is on the left. Signs will lead you to the Hungryland Boardwalk and Interpretive Trail.

Governor proclaims Sept. 28 Hunting and Fishing Day

Gov. Lawton Chiles has proclaimed Saturday, Sept. 28, as Hunting and Fishing Day in Florida to recognize the state's sportsmen for their contributions to conservation.

"Conserving our state's natural and wildlife resources is one of the most important responsibilities we have to this and future generations of Floridians," Chiles said. "The conservation programs supported and financed by hunters and anglers have benefited hundreds of wildlife species such as deer, wild turkeys, otters, bald eagles, and songbirds -- wildlife that all Floridians can enjoy."

Hunting and Fishing Day in Florida is part of the nationwide observance of National Hunting and Fishing (NHF) Day. NHF Day was established by Congress in 1972.

"This day focuses on the importance of conserving our natural and wildlife resources and the vital role sportsmen play in conservation efforts," said Dr. Allan L. Egbert, executive director of the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission. Sportsmen helped start the conservation movement. They supported laws to stop uncontrolled exploitation of wildlife and helped establish state fish and wildlife agencies that could implement the needed conservation programs."

Egbert said sportsmen also proposed and supported laws to establish special hunting and fishing fees and special taxes on their equipment to help pay for conservation programs.

According to NHF Day organizers, the Pittman-Robertson Act and later the Wallop-Breaux Act, passed by Congress and signed into law, placed a tax on sporting goods and ammunition that now generates $3 million each day for use in wildlife programs.

The money is allotted to states, based mainly on the cost and number of hunting and fishing licenses sold.

Gov. Chiles urges all Floridians to join with sportsmen-conservationists in their efforts to ensure the wise use and proper management of our natural resources to benefit future generations.

1998 Daytona 500 ticket orders to be awarded by drawing

The Daytona 500 is unarguably one of the toughest tickets in sports. However, the procedure for buying tickets to the "world's greatest race" has now become simpler with the introduction of a random drawing for tickets to the race with the largest audience in motorsports.

All Daytona 500 grandstand tickets are renewable, therefore, few seats each year are available for purchase. Historically, unrenewed tickets have gone on sale the first business day of each new year. In 1996, more than 100,000 phone calls were attempted to the Speedway ticket office on the first day of sales, leaving many fans frustrated without the opportunity to purchase tickets.

Therefore, for the 1998 Daytona 500, to be eligible to purchase tickets, interested parties must send a postcard to the Speedway ticket office listing name, address, daytime telephone number and number of tickets desired (maximum of four).

The postcards will be limited to one per customer, and must be postmarked no earlier than Dec. 1, 1996, and no later than Dec. 21, 1996. A random drawing from all cards received will be held in Jan. '97 to determine who will have the option to purchase tickets for the '98 Daytona 500. Those whose cards were selected will receive an invoice for their '98 Daytona 500 tickets, some of which may be part of a two-race package with the Daytona 300 NASCAR Busch Series race.

"We believe this is the most equitable way to serve our customers who would like to purchase Daytona 500 tickets," said Daytona International Speedway President John Graham. "We hope this will ease the frustration of trying to get through to the ticket office on what, in the past, has been an extremely hectic day."

Infeld tickets for the 1997 Daytona 500 will be available at the gate beginning Feb. 13. Reserved RV packages for Speedweeks '97, and tickets to other Speedway events are available now by calling (904) 253-RACE (7223).

World Championships of Unimotorcycle racing to be held Oct. 19 in Daytona

The American National Unimotorcycle Society, a non-profit organization dedicated to the advancement of unimotorcycle racing will be holding the World Championships of Unimotorcycle Racing Oct. 19 in Daytona Beach.

Beginning next year, the Bike-toberfest Nationals will feature unimotorcyclists from all over the world who will challenge current record holder Bob Schecki of New Smyrna Beach, FL, for the unimotorcycle world speed record.

Unimotorcycles are modified, one-wheeled motorcycles designed to carry one person who must shift his or her weight to move these mechanical mutants.

According to the American National Unimotorcycle Society, unimotorcycles were first created in 1968 by Samus in, FL, resident Sidecar Willie. Working in his garage, Sidecar Willie created the first unimotorcycle from scrap steel and used motorcycle parts. Willie shared his knowledge and constructed these mechanical mutants for fellow bikers.

As interest in the new contraptions grew, so did interest in timed competition among the bike builders.

In 1991, Sidecar Willie spearheaded efforts to promote timed unimotorcycle racing and he founded the American National Unimotorcycle Society which has held 10 consecutive timed unimotorcycle drag events in the Daytona Beach area.

The Bike-toberfest Nationals will feature timed motorcycle racing featuring Indian versus Harley modified unimotorcycle drag events in the Daytona Beach area.

The largest audience in motorsports will grow larger in 1997 with the addition of prime reserved recreational vehicle parking spaces in the infield of Daytona International Speedway.

Although reserved grandstand seats for the Daytona 500 are sold, race fans wanting a "front-row" ticket to the "world's greatest race" can reserve a spot in the popular "Yellow Reserved RV Area".

To accommodate the overwhelming demand for the Yellow Area, which was developed for Speedweeks '96, inside the first and second turns of the 2.5-mile trioval, the Speedway has added parking spaces in the infield for 1997. In addition, a fifth day and fifth night has been added to the special "Reserved RV Package". It now includes infiel admission following on-track activity Tuesday, Feb. 11, through Sunday, Feb. 16.

A reserved parking spot in turns one and two of the infield at the "World Center of Racing" entitled fans to an exciting view of six races in five days. Included in the package are two infiel tickets to the following events (additional tickets are available):

• Wednesday, Feb. 12 - Final NASCAR Busch & Goody's Dash Series Qualifying and Final NASCAR Winston Cup practice for the Gatorade 125's.

• Thursday, Feb. 13 - Gatorade 125-mile Qualifying
